QUARTERBACK Roy Bray of the Gold squad slips around end for a TD which was nullified by an off side penalty during the final minute of the first half.

Rosera Leads Golds to Win In Spring Clash

By JACK VOGEL

The Golds defeated the Whites 27-13 in a thrill-packed intersquad tussle last night on Dornblaser Field. The game, played before a small crowd, had all the excitement of a championship game.

The Golds, led by hard running Ervin "Tank" Rosera, scored in every quarter but the first. Several times it seemed that Rosera would be stopped only to go for added yardage.

The Whites scored first from the 1 yard line, when Griffin kept the ball on a quarterback keep and dove into the end zone. The touchdown was set up on a 35 yard pass from Griffin to Pangle, who was driven out of bounds on the 1 yard line.

Whites Lead

The Whites led at the end of the first quarter but never were in the lead after that. The Golds scored with about three minutes gone in the second period, when Keeley handed off to Rosera from one yard out. Keeley passed to Myers for the conversion. Whites held a 7-6 halftime lead.

Quarterback Keeley set up the Golds' second touchdown as he faked and kept running to the one yard line. Remington then took a direct handoff from Keeley and dived for the touchdown. Kelley booted the conversion to make the score 14-6.

Brown Recovers

After a series of fumbles by both sides Ron Brown recovered a fumble in the Whites' end zone for the third Gold touchdown. Vucurovich converted to make the score 21-6.

Each team scored twice in the final period. Griffin threw to Pangle, who made a sensational grab to set up the Whites' touchdown. Griffin then threw to Hurley from 17 yards out for the score.

The Golds scored the final touchdown when Rosera lugged the ball over from six yards out. Final score 27-13.

Critic Urges All to Attend 'Twelfth Night'

By VEDDER M. GILBERT
Chairman, English Department

Just what is the purpose of a college dramatic production? Is it to train student actors and stage crews? Is it to give the staff an opportunity to show its talent? Or, is it to entertain audiences? Fortunately, I do not have to answer these questions with any further statement than last night's performance of "Twelfth Night" by the Masquers demonstrates that Shakespeare again proved himself a welcome friend to students, staff, and audience. If you have not planned to see the play tonight or tomorrow, alter your plans. Here is an opportunity to see why "Twelfth Night" continues to be a challenge to directors and a source of amusement to audiences.

Everything you will see during the performances at the University Theater will not please you, especially if you have read the play in its entirety or have seen professional actors play the roles. Be not too critical. Remember that this production was prepared to acquaint the inexperienced player with the lure of the theater through a good play by a revered playwright.

If you accept the limitations placed upon Mr. Firman Brown's direction, you will countenance the cuts, commend the rapid pace, and forgive the emphasis upon the farcical elements. You will, also, recognize Mr. Clem Peck's skills as the designer and technical director.

A playwright can insist that the theater cannot exist without him; however, sometime during his career he admits that actors and audiences are important. Part of Shakespeare's greatness results from his firsthand knowledge that an unacted play is as useful as an unworn glove. The group of Masquers who constitute the cast of "Twelfth Night" have tried hard to give life and meaning to the lines. A goodly number have achieved considerable success in the interpretation of their parts.

Especially notable are Heather McLeod, Bruce Cusker, and Gordon Rognien. This is not to say that Dolores Vaage, Doug Giebel, Edward Brodinski, and the others will not charm or amuse you. Rather, it is to say that Miss McLeod, as Viola who must transform herself into Cesario, has a role that must be handled subtly. It is to say that Cusker as Feste the Fool is confronted with having to be a sage clown. It is also his lot to deliver several songs. That he recites instead of sings them does not detract from the performance. And, Rognien as Malvolio is entrusted with a role that has come close to defeating many an experienced actor, including Maurice Evans.

If horseplay is to your taste, you will relish the scenes between Giebel as Sir Toby Belch, Brodinski as Sir Andrew Aguecheek, and Bill Kearns as Fabian. While their antics please your palates, do not forget they were brewed from Mr. Brown's recipe.

What of the audience? That is up to you.

The faculty voted in a recent meeting to discontinue the C+ grade. This action will go into effect next autumn quarter.

Store Board Hears Cooperative Plan for Operation

The possibility of disincorporating the Associated Students Store and operating it on a co-operative basis was suggested as an alternative to having the business conducted by the University at yesterday's Store Board meeting.

ASMSU President Roger Baty said it was his understanding that others stores are operated by student bodies as co-ops, and that this method of operation has proven acceptable elsewhere.

In some schools, students are given coupons with their purchases. At the end of the year, these coupons are turned in and the student is given a cash rebate on his purchases during the year.

After discussing methods of store operation at other universities—and Montana State College in particular, Store Board called the manager of the student store at MSC. The MSC store, according to information received during the long-distance call, has not paid taxes on profits, and yet it is operated on a plan similar to the one now in effect for the MSU Associated Students Store.

The question of taxes is one of the primary reasons Store Board is considering disincorporating the store here and turning the assets over to ASMSU, with the University controlling operations under advisement of a board of students.

Store Board, postponing action on the proposed resolution to seek disincorporation, will meet again Monday at 4 p.m. The meeting in LA101, is open to all students and faculty.

STUDENT-FACULTY HOUR WILL BE DISCONTINUED

Student-faculty coffee hours in the Lodge on Wednesday will be discontinued starting today, due to the increasing number of activities scheduled until the end of the quarter, according to Carol Johnsrud, chairman.

The relationship between the students and the faculty has been improved to a small degree by these, Miss Johnsrud said yesterday. The coffee hours will be scheduled next fall quarter with some improvements.

McFarland Named In $1,200 Civil Suit

President McFarland yesterday was named defendant in a $1,200 civil suit filed in Missoula district court.

C. E. Simons of Missoula, plaintiff, charged that McFarland had agreed to buy a Paxon painting in 1954, and that the agreement stipulated that the president would have time to raise money on behalf of the University to pay for the painting.

Simons said that he has made repeated requests to McFarland for the money, but charged the defendant has refused to pay.

The painting, of Chief Joseph and his Indian band at Lolo, was on exhibition at the University at the time the alleged deal was made.

President McFarland is in Washington, D.C. this week, and unavailable for comment.

State School Administrators Conference Says Curriculum is 'Generally Good'

HELENA (AP) — The official report of the ninth annual Administrators' Conference, released here today, showed Montana school administrators agree that the curriculum offerings of Montana schools are generally good.

The report said, however, that there is a need for evaluating the curriculum and bringing it up to date.

At the conference, set up by the State Department of Public Instruction and held at the capitol building here last month, school administrators spent three days discussing curriculum problems and formulating recommendations.

The comprehensive report on conference proceedings was compiled by a committee composed of Bill Johnstone, superintendent of schools at Fort Benton; Owen Loftsgarden, superintendent of schools at Power; and C. R. Anderson, superintendent of schools at Helena.

Applications may be submitted to Miss Blaszk, Natalie Norby or John Gesell.

Deadline For Applications Due Friday at Lodge Desk

Applications for ASMSU and activity board committees are due this Friday at 5 p.m. at the Lodge main desk Roger Baty, ASMSU president, announced yesterday.

Applications are available in the offices of the living groups or at the Lodge main desk.

ASMSU committees include Athletic Board, Budget & Finance, Traditions Board, Publications Board, Publicity-Travel, "M" Book Committee, World University Service, Visiting Scholars, Leadership Camp and International Students.

Activities Board committees are Dance, Community Concert, Movies, Art & Exhibits, Publicity, and Entertainment.

Concluding that "there is a necessity for analyzing curriculum offerings from kindergarten through grade 12," the report cited a need for defining "essential minimum requirements" for the schools.

Also needed, the administrators said, are adequate study guides for all subjects and grade levels, since "our present course of study is out of date, outmoded, and is not in general use."

Summer Jobs for College Students Offered by Civil Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attention high school and college students scouting summer jobs:

UNCLE SAM WANTS YOU!

A Civil Service Commission list of summer job openings with the government range from typists to park rangers, from veterinarians to engineers, from weather men to graders of meats.

A student anxious to get three months free of his professor, however, may find his teacher working right beside him. A number of government agencies are also looking for college professors to fill summer jobs.

Most summer workers are hired either as student assistants or student trainees.

Student trainees must pass a civil service test. Frequently, they become full-time government employees after graduation. Minimum age usually is 16.

No civil service examination is required for student assistants. They must seek employment related to their field of studies and are not allowed to work more than 130 days a year.

High School students generally are paid $246 a month. College freshmen and sophomores get $24 and college juniors $284.

Summertime typists and stenographers, hired under a different program, must pass a civil service test.

Teachers primarily are hired for jobs "of a scientific, professional, or analytical nature." They sometimes are retained as consultants after the summer season is over.

Post offices around the country hire their own summertime workers.

Bulgarian Coeds Are Expelled For Sitting With Crossed Legs in Cafes

By LEE DEVORE

Coeds who cross their legs can be expelled from Bulgarian universities, according to the Crusade for Freedom, the organization supporting Radio Free Europe.

This story was revealed to the RFE bureau in Berlin by a young Bulgarian refugee. Fleeing the Communists, the former student told about the long list of "minor offenses," as defined by Red school masters.

"Bourgeois behavior" falls under the definition of "minor offenses." Under this heading comes the dancing of western dances, which are labeled "incompatible with socialistic efforts."

For female students, sitting with crossed legs in cafes is forbidden, especially when they are smoking and have a glass of wine in front of them. The Bulgarian youth told RFE that a female student was dismissed only because she was caught in this pose three times.

The behavior of Bulgarian university students is watched over by the "Responsible," a professor or lecturer who is appointed to superintend a group of students. The students inform of their classmates by reporting offences to the "Responsible," in turn, must turn in periodic reports, otherwise the informers will denounce him to the head of the faculty.

Under the Bulgarian "cut" system, a student who misses—without permission—more than ten classes in all, or more than two classes in one subject, must repeat the entire year—two semesters.

Committees working on WUS were Jay Hanks, Jack Upshaw, and Ken Robison, publicity; Nancy Perry and Addison Carlson, auction; Lonita Nelson, ugly pair; Chuck Aker and Ginger Bacon, dance; Camie Peterson, car wash; and Ardyth Romstad and Judy Weaver, solicitation.

'Tip Trackmen Beat Redskins

SALT LAKE CITY, —(P)—Montana State University made a clean sweep in the quarter mile and scored heavily in the weight events yesterday afternoon to defeat Utah University in a Skyline Conference dual track and field meet at Salt Lake City.

Montana scored 80 3/4 points to Utah's 50 1/4.

No records were broken on the 'Ute track, which was made slow by intermittent rain which fell prior to the meet.

Jim Rowland, Mike Granbois and Paul Sullivan finished first, second and third, respectively in the 440-yard run to pick up nine points. The sweep gave the Grizzlies a lead they never relinquished. Time in the 440 was :50.7.

Ken Wersland gained a first place in the shot put and Russ Sheriff won top spot in the discus to keep the Grizzlies well in front. Wersland threw the shot an even 46 feet while Sheriff tossed the discus 149 feet, six inches.

Jim Black finished second in the shot and Wersland was runner-up in the discus.

Montana gained nine first places and nine seconds in the 15-event meet. Top individual scorer in the meet was Utah's Ken Christensen who won both the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash to tally 10 points.

Wersland and Bill Bealieu were the top individual scorers for Montana with eight points each.

MSU Geologists Return From Logan, Utah, Meet

The Rocky Mountain section of the Geological Society of America will meet in Missoula in May 1959, according to Dr. Fred S. Honkala, chairman of the MSU Geology Dept.

John F. Wehrenberg and Ralph Yalkovsky of MSU geology faculty attended the organization's meeting at Logan, Utah, last week. It drew about 400 geologists from the Rocky Mountain area.
